

USA EAGLES

CLASSIC RUGBY

The Classic Eagles (players 33 and older) represent the U.S. in international rugby competitions. Many of the players began their rugby careers when there was no money and no sponsorship, playing for the love of the sport. Their love of the game and dedication to the Classic Eagles, founded in 1986, help promote and promulgate the ideals associated with rugby: competition, comraderie, companionship and tradition. The team hosts international matches against touring teams such as the Classic All Blacks from New Zealand, the Classic Lions, and the Classic Canadians; plays in the annual World Rugby Classic in Bermuda; and has been invited to participate in the Legends Festival in Durban, SA in 2009.

The Classic Eagles also raise the profile of rugby in America by giving back to the sport. The team sponsored the USA Under-19 team's trip to South Africa in 2002, the USA National 7-a-side team to the Hong Kong 7's, the USA development team to Hawaii, and the development camps to select and train the US National 7-a-side team. The Classic Eagles are also involved in the US Rugby Foundation and many local community developmental rugby programs.

The Classic Eagles Mission Statement

The goal of USA Classic Eagles Rugby is to develop, to promote, and to support rugby in the United States. This extends beyond financial support to lending administrative and coaching expertise as well as developing youth teams.

To Our Sponsors

USA Classic Eagles Rugby sponsors are a part of the team's extended family, joining in celebrations and in social events.

Without our sponsors, the team could not fulfill its primary aim of fostering the values learned on the rugby pitch and passing these values on to the next generation.

Our sponsors help us show the rest of the world that rugby is alive and flourishing among the youth of America and help the team to bring younger players into the Classic Eagles family.
